Brown's Iron Bitters

In a unsolicited letter (June 29, 1804.) she writes:

"About 9 or 10 years ago I was broken down in health and suffered from extremo nervousness, and severo neuralgic pains afflicted different parts of my body-sometimes the dreadful pain sometimes the dreadful pain would be in my eyes and head, sometimes in my haud and often in my shoulders and neck. I took many remedies, but found none like Brown's Iron Bitters. I have used a few bottles every year since: I often praise it to others."

ROSE WHIST PARTY.

A Novel and Pretty Idea for a Social

Any novel idea which will help to solve that difficult question of how to entertain a number of guests is always a welcome suggestion, and one very pretty form of entertainment is a rose whist party.

To begin with, the invitations are sent out on pale pink paper, and announce that rose whist is to be the order of the evening. The game played is that familiar one of progressive whist, with the exception that each player keeps account for herself of all the red cards which are taken and nothing clarks.

account for herself of all the red cards which are taken, and nothing else is counted. When the time is up the fortunate player who holds the most red cards takes the first prize, while the one who has the least gast the "booby."

The prizes should all be something pertaining to the rose. Numerous articles can be thought of, such as rose bowls, rose candlesticks, rose sachets, bottles of rose perform, bombonnieres, with candied rose leaves, etc. Upon each table are placed four full-grown La France or Mormet roses with long stems and green leaves, as well as a dainty dish filled with plnk and white bonbons. Each player also has a tally card of pink paper and a pink pencil attached for keeping the score.

The iccs served are pink and white, and the support show the results have been the results.

The ices served are pink and white, and the supper table should be grace-fully draped with pink ribbons, with rose petals strewn about on the cover. In fact, roses in profusion should be everywhere and the lights should be softly shaded in pink.

CLUBS FOR WOMEY

Where They Keep Posted With Regard to Current Events. Ladies' Home Journal.

A simple organization and one of great interest is called "The Newspaper Club." The members are bound to carefully read the news of the day as stated by the papers. One member is assigned the foreign news for one week, another the political doings of our country, a third has charge of the book reviews, while others must study up the record of the lives of men and wo the record of the lives of men and wo-men at the moment most prominent before the public. In this way women are brought closely in touch with the life of the world and lifted above local prejudice and tradition. In some neighborhoods what are called "Rock-ing Chair Clubs" obtain. Such ing Chair Clubs" obtain. Such organizations have no object other than the cultivation of friendship among women. The motto might well be the words of Emerson, "Conversation—what is it all but that?" One member reads along while the others sew, but part of is it all but that?" One member reads aloud while the others sew, but part of the time is devoted to the good old fashion of telling the individual experience and passing on the helpful thought, the title of the book or article found of service, the useful receipt or the personal discovery of new methods of value in the home. In one club what has been called the "Three D's—Dress, Diseases and Domestics," were prohibited topics, and no woman was allowed to quote her husband or chronicle the sayings and doings of her children. In another neighborhood, where In another neighborhood, where ren. In another neighborhood, where most of the women were young mothers, the little ones became the principal sub-ject of discussion, and that most charm-ing work, "Mothers in Council," be-came almost the handbook of the organ-

THE CORRECT HAND-SHAKE.

How You Must Say "How Do You Do?" Properly.

"How shall I shake hand ?" ask a score of mon. "Surely there are changes in that old-time custom."

Never mind those vagaries. Shake hands in the most careful and graceful way you know. Don't let the hand fall through your friend's without energy Nothing is so unpleasant to the other Nothing is so unpleasant to the other party. If the woman is ungloved and party. If the woman is ungloved and there is pleasant friendship between you, give her hand a cordial clasp. The new method of "high-hand-shaking" provides for the gloved woman—and it is a sensible provision. Just take her fingers within yours and shake them on a level with the chest. This provents you soiling her gloves. Your own hand should be uncovered when greeting friends of either sex.

If you are making a short call carry your hat, gloves and cane in the left hand into the drawing room. Place the hat and cane on any available piece of furniture, keeping the gloves in the left hand. Where receptions are in progress leave the first two articles in the

MRS. CLEVELAND'S BEAUTY,

The President's Wife is More Fascinating Philadelphia Time .

Mrs. Cleveland has nover in her life looked as beautiful and as happy as she does this winter. At Mrs. Oarlisle's reception the other night one marveled when this woman would cease to grow charming, for every year she seems to have increased in leveliness. It may have been her gown; it may have been the new way in which the dresses her hair, but she certainly looked years younger than she did at the commoncement of this administration and her smile seemed brighter, fresher and more seductive than ever. Her gown was made of spaugled moire antique of a pinkish mauve shade, the ordinid that now so fashionable. The bodice was low, with high puffed short sleeves and dangling pear strands triuming it. A double strand of diamonds were wown into a coronet, and, while looking similar. double strand of diamonds were worsen into a coronet, and, while looking simple she also looked superb. She had assumed a position immediately under the large life-size painting of Mrs. Washington, and the picture of this ancient lady seemed smiling upon the fairest of her successors.

Exquisite Caudie Shades.

Some new candle shades are a de-ght. They are dainty enough to suit light. They are dainty enough to suit the most exacting taste, yet are so set as the absolutely safe. They are made from real Tarkish doylles, edged about with duchesse lace and are stretched on fine wire frames, which, in turn, fit upon the support which clasps the candle at its base. Some are embroidered in white and gold and are extremely decorative, but the most decorative are those which show the wonderful colors of the Turkish needle-woman. These are of a fine, thin silk material, much like bolting cloth, and are worked as only those women know how to work. The shades, when set upon the caudles, cast a lovely light upon the countenance of each guest and ornament the table so comlight upon the countonance of each guest and ornament the table so com-plotely as to call for little elso.

WRITING TO THE QUEEN.

Just How to Proceed it You Should Ever

A useful piece of information to any of those suffering from that dreadful infliction, eacoethes scribendi, and who in consequence, feel themselves impelled to write to Queen Victoria, will do well to bear in mind that they must on well to bear in mind that they must on no account fold the paper on which they have written. No communication which bears evoidence of having been creased will ever fall into her majesty's own hands. The proper method is to write on thick, glossy white paper, and to dispatch the missive in an envelope which fits it. Any folded communica-tion never reaches the queen, for the tion never reaches the queen, for simple reason that she won't look a All such letters are opened by the mis-tress of the robes, and as a rule their contents never get beyond her, or if the letter is of importance it is returned to the writer with directions how to for ward it.

If You Want to Sleep Well. Philadelphia Inquirer.

"If you are troubled with insomnia let me suggest a hop pillow as the quickest way to slumbertown."

This advice came from a veritable butterfly of a woman, whose duties in the social fray demand that she offset the so-tail ray demand that she offset them by something approaching regularity in sleeping hours. "Nearly all my friends use them," continued this feminine worldling, "And, upon my soul, I don't know how was should my seemed. we should manage without them, having once experienced their soothing qualities."

This restful fad, by the bye, is quite within the reach of all women. True, the fastidious being houses her hops within the finest and sottest of linen or mull, but you can cover this sleepy hollow treasure if you wish with just an ordinary bit of ticking, and it will do its work quite as well. At first the oder of the hops is just the least bit objectionable, but in a very little while one gets used to it, and then it loses all unpleasantness.
